CO-ORDINATED TEAM APPROACH CATCHES ON IN SASKATCHEWAN HOSPITALS
More Accountable Care Units are Serving Patients in Regina and Saskatoon

Patients with complex care needs are receiving more timely and effective care as the number of innovative Accountable Care Units in Regina and Saskatoon continues to grow.

When unit 3D at Regina’s Pasqua Hospital begins the transition in December, it will be the fifth Accountable Care Unit (ACU) in the province. Preparations are also underway in Saskatoon to add to more units early in the new year. Thanks to more consistent, co-ordinated processes and communication, patients have a better care experience, are returning home from hospital sooner, and the work environment is more fulfilling for health care providers.

Following the launch in April of the ACU on 7th Medicine, St. Paul’s Hospital, Saskatoon, the data shows that the length of stay for the unit is currently 12.2 per cent below the previous average. In Regina, there was a 15 per cent decrease in length of stay reported on the pilot ACU on Unit 4A at the Pasqua Hospital. In the Medical Surveillance Unit at the Pasqua, 105 per cent more patients received specialized care following its launch.

“By expanding the number of accountable care units in Saskatchewan, we are making good progress toward our goal of helping patients come home from a hospital stay sooner, healthier, and with less chance of a return visit,” Health Minister Jim Reiter said. “These units are part of our Connected Care Strategy, to transform the health system and improve the way care is delivered for patients who have complex care needs.”

Saskatchewan will lead Canada in economic growth in 2018 and 2019, according to the most recent RBC Economics Provincial Outlook. The report projects growth of 2.7 per cent for both years, compared to 1.9 per cent in 2018 and 1.6 per cent in 2019 for Canada.

“Saskatchewan’s economy has been resilient in the face of challenges in the resource sector,” Economy Minister Steven Bonk said. “We have made some tough decisions to place the province in a position of strength for the future, and we are pleased to see these decisions yielding positive results for our economy.”

The province’s economy will benefit from recovery in the energy sector, as well as rising investment spending and expected rebounds in the agricultural and mining sectors. The report notes key potash contracts secured in China and India as contributing factors to some of the growth. The growth in the mining sector is expected to have a positive effect on capital spending and the construction sector in Saskatchewan.

The RBC report also projects growth of 0.5 per cent in employment and a lower unemployment rate of 5.7 per cent for 2018.
The Enchanted Forest is Saskatchewan’s top wintertime visitor attraction. This has been a family favourite activity in our home for as long as I can remember. I encourage you to plan a trip to the BHP Enchanted Forest Holiday Light Tour featuring the new Grinch display. This Saskatchewan Christmas tradition is in its 19th year and is open nightly until January 6th from 5:30 pm - 10:00 pm. Click here for additional information.

CONGRATULATIONS TO SASKATOON WILLOWGROVE CONSTITUENT SCOTT ADAMS!

I'm pleased to share an incredible story recognizing Saskatoon Willowgrove constituent Scott Adams. Scott is a graduate student at the University of Saskatoon.

Thanks to Scott's research patients in remote communities may be a step closer to getting ultrasound imaging without travelling long distances. Scott is part of a U of S research team which has been the first to test a long distance ultrasound device in North America and has found that this type of technology is feasible to use for abdominal and prenatal imaging.

Scott is very worthy of the recognition he is receiving and I’m so pleased to share this story with you. Please click on the links below to read about Scott’s outstanding accomplishments!

SASKATCHEWAN AMONG SHORTEST WAIT TIMES, SAYS SURVEY

The latest annual Fraser Institute survey of doctors suggests Saskatchewan patients are receiving elective health services sooner than patients in most other provinces.

The national think tank’s results, issued December 7, rank Saskatchewan as having the second-shortest waits in Canada for patients seeking medically-necessary elective treatment, when the time waiting to see a specialist and the time waiting for treatment are combined.

This year’s survey estimates that half of Saskatchewan patients waited 19.8 weeks or less.

“Our government is proud of the successes the health system has achieved in improving access to surgery,” Health Minister Jim Reiter said. “Further work is ongoing to reduce wait times for medical imaging and for appointments with a specialist.”

PLEASE BE SAFE AND CHECK FOR ICE THICKNESS!
With the recent warm temperatures and more on the way, remember to check for safe and sufficient ice before venturing out for ice fishing or other winter activities. Reports have come in of ice fishing shelters going through the ice at Buffalo Pound and Thompson Lake.

Ice thickness depends on the waterbody and surrounding conditions. Ice does not freeze at a uniform thickness and ice strength can vary considerably from one area to another. Check the ice thickness before you travel on it and use caution. The ice thickness is a guideline for individuals to make a decision about whether to venture onto the ice.

The first Christmas after you lose someone is hard.

You will feel like not celebrating, but you will go along with it for the kids, for the family.

It will hurt.

The presents not bought. The chair not sat in. The memories of past Christmases that threaten to suck the joy out of the whole day.

But you will get through it. You may even raise a smile between the tears.

If you can - thank God for the Christmases you had with them. Light a candle. Cry. Start a new tradition in their memory.

Next year won't be as hard. Trust me.

NEW ACCESS AND PRIVACY LEGISLATION COMING INTO EFFECT IN 2018

Improvements to Saskatchewan’s access and privacy legislation will come into effect with the start of the new year.

The Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Amendment Act, 2017 (FOIPP) and The Local Authority Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Amendment Act, 2017 (LAFOIPP) will both come into force on January 1, 2018.

“The coming into force of this legislation will modernize access and privacy in Saskatchewan and ensure we are consistent with other Canadian jurisdictions,” Justice Minister and Attorney General Don Morgan said. “We thank the Information and Privacy Commissioner for working with us on these changes, and look forward to continuing to work with him to maintain the appropriate balance between access and privacy in Saskatchewan.”

Some of the amendments include:
• a duty for government institutions and local authorities to assist applicants in obtaining information and a duty to protect personal information;
• extension of the privacy requirements under FOIPP to MLA and cabinet ministers’ offices;
• extension of LAFOIPP to include police services;
• increasing the penalties for offences; and
• creation of a new offence for snooping by an employee of a government institution or local authority.

This legislation adopts the majority of the recommendations made in the Information and Privacy Commissioner’s 2014-15 Annual Report.
