GRADE 7 CLASS FROM WILLOWGROVE SCHOOL VISITED THE LEGISLATIVE BUILDING

It is always a pleasure to welcome students from our constituency to their Legislature. This past week I was honoured to meet with a fine group of 48 grade 7 students from Willowgrove School.

The students were accompanied by their teachers David Pratte and Stephanie Fernandez. It was evident David and Stephanie prepared the students well for their visit. The class had many great questions. I certainly appreciated their interest.

Thanks to the teachers and chaperones Renee Back, Cody Rakai, Cindy Suski, Sarah Buck, Sherry Sargent and Lisa Bolton for providing the opportunity for this class to visit their legislative assembly. I enjoyed the visit.

If you know of a class or group that would be interested in coming to the legislature, please contact our constituency office at ken.cheveldayoff.mla@sasktel.net and we would be delighted to help make arrangements.

PREMIER MOE ATTENDS WESTERN PREMIERS CONFERENCE

Premier Scott Moe attended the Western Premier's Conference in Yellowknife last week.

Premier Moe, "No minds were changed on the vitally-important Trans Mountain pipeline expansion, but there were good discussions on the importance of resource development, free trade, market access for our resources, and our concern about federal environmental legislation that may hinder investment and job creation."

KIDSFIRST HELPS BUILD HEALTHY FAMILIES

The Government of Saskatchewan is supporting stronger families, including those living in vulnerable circumstances, through KidsFirst. In 2018-19, the Ministry of Education will provide $15.5 million to KidsFirst, which serves families in nearly 200 communities throughout the province.

KidsFirst works to build on family strengths by providing parents with the knowledge and tools needed to support the healthy development of their children. Services are designed to build parent capacity, provide positive early learning experiences and connections to community.

“Early intervention helps children living in vulnerable circumstances succeed,” Deputy Premier and Education Minister Gordon Wyant said. “KidsFirst is a great resource for connecting parents and children with community supports.”

PROVINCE INVESTS OUTSTANDING CITIZENS INTO SASKATCHEWAN ORDER OF MERIT

On May 23, Lieutenant Governor W. Thomas Molloy will invest six extraordinary citizens with the Saskatchewan Order of Merit.

“The Order of Merit is the province’s highest honour,” Molloy said. “Saskatchewan has remarkable citizens, and looking at the accomplishments and contributions of the six individuals chosen for the Order of Merit this year, I am truly humbled. Their work has made our province a better place, and I thank them for their tremendous efforts.”

The 2018 recipients are:

- National Chief Perry Bellegarde, Assembly of First Nations, Little Black Bear First Nation;
- Gail Bowen, Author, Regina;

- Dr. Robert Calder, Professor Emeritus and Author, Saskatoon;
- Maurice Delage, President of Delage Farms Ltd., Indian Head;
- Thelma Pepper, Photographic Artist, Saskatoon; and
- Neil Richards, LGBT Archivist and Activist, Saskatoon (posthumous).

Since 1985, the Saskatchewan Order of Merit has recognized citizens who demonstrate exemplary contributions to the province in areas such as the arts, business and industry, agriculture, community leadership and volunteer service.

In 1991, it was recognized by the Government of Canada in the national sequence of orders. The individuals invested this year will join 229 other citizens who have previously been invested into the Saskatchewan Order of Merit.

Conservation Officers in Saskatchewan

Did you know ...

Saskatchewan conservation officers are uniformed law enforcement officers and special constables with full police powers who patrol the province's lakes, trails and grid roads, protecting our natural resources, and ensuring public safety.

Protecting people
and our environment

- Enforce laws protecting our natural resources
- Conduct regular checks of resource users and investigate violations
- Educate the public and generate awareness
- Conduct environmental investigations (illegal dumping and burning, habitat alteration and spills)
- Support emergency response
- Enforce wildfire legislation

Educating the public

- Hunter and angler education
- Trade shows and events
- School visits and career fairs
- Group presentations to local wildlife federations, new immigrants, municipal councils and committees
- Aquatic invasive species prevention and awareness

Employment and training

Conservation officers must meet a minimum standard of a two-year diploma in resource environmental law prior to applying with the ministry.

Once they secure a permanent position, officers are sent to the Western Canadian Law Enforcement Academy for 16 weeks of additional training.

Other training is conducted on the job.

The ministry employed approximately 140 permanent and 50 seasonal conservation officers in 2017.

2017 top angling charges

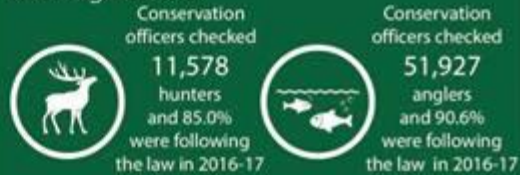

- Angle without a valid licence
- Use hooks other than barbless in designated waters

SHARP DECREASE IN IMPAIRED DRIVING DEATHS AND INJURIES IN 2017

Numbers Possible Sign of Change in Behaviour by Saskatchewan Drivers

Numbers released by Saskatchewan Government Insurance (SGI) today confirm there were significantly fewer deaths involving alcohol and drugs on Saskatchewan roads in 2017. Preliminary data from SGI shows there were 39 deaths* on Saskatchewan roads in 2017 from collisions involving alcohol or drugs, and approximately 340 injuries*.

Both numbers represent significant decreases in those categories from the previous year and from the five-year average. From 2012-16, Saskatchewan averaged 596 injuries and 57 deaths resulting from collisions involving alcohol or drugs.

Of the 39 fatalities, 34 were alcohol-related, while five were attributed to drugs. There was a 40 per cent decrease in alcohol-related fatalities between 2016 and 2017.

“The fact that we’re seeing fewer collisions, injuries and fatalities attributed to impaired driving has us cautiously optimistic that attitudes and behaviours are changing in our province,” Minister Responsible for SGI Joe Hargrave said. “We hope this is the start of something big and we want to let people know that when they make good decisions – to not drive impaired, to stop friends and family from driving impaired, to plan a safe ride home – it can have a real and positive impact.”

PROVINCE CONGRATULATES THE 2017 EMERGENCY MANAGEMENT EXEMPLARY SERVICE AWARD RECIPIENTS

May 24, three members of emergency management organizations in Saskatchewan were awarded the 2017 Emergency Management Exemplary Service Award.

The award, which is a partnership between provincial, territorial and federal governments, recognizes those who have achieved excellence in their respective fields in emergency management. This is the first year for this national award program.

The Saskatchewan recipients who were recognized at a special awards ceremony in Ottawa are:

- Jim Durnin from Prince Albert, in the category of Resilient Communities;
- Richard Kent from Prince Albert, in the category of Outstanding Contribution to Emergency Management; and
- Robert Smith from Prince Albert, in the category of Search and Rescue Volunteer.

Government Relations Minister Warren Kaeding congratulates those who were recognized for their contributions in the emergency management field.

“These individuals have dedicated their lives to supporting local Saskatchewan communities during times of crisis,” Kaeding said. “This national award program acknowledges the skills and professionalism required by all emergency management personnel who respond to natural or man-made disasters in our province and across Canada.” Continue reading here.

The Ministry of Advanced Education and Saskatchewan's post-secondary institutions are collaborating on a new Post-Secondary Education Indicators Project. As a result of this project, government and institutions are able to collect, analyze and report sector-wide post-secondary data, which will help inform future decisions and planning.

The first set of data has been released and focuses on enrolment and demographic numbers and types of credentials awarded. For example, the data shows that between 2013 and 2017, there has been a 26 per cent increase in First Nations, Métis and Inuit students enrolled in credentialed programs at Saskatchewan's post-secondary institutions, with nearly 5,400 students enrolled in 2017. As well, the number of international students enrolled at Saskatchewan's post-secondary institutions topped 5,000 in 2017 and grew by 29 per cent between 2013 and 2017.

"Our government recognizes the importance of post-secondary education," Advanced Education

Minister Tina Beaudry-Mellor said. “I am pleased to see that an increased number of students are choosing to pursue their post-secondary studies in our province.”

REPORT FROM THE LEGISLATURE

Premier Scott Moe advocated for Saskatchewan's interests at the Western Premiers Conference in Yellowknife, including on the issue of pipelines, to ensure we can get our resources to world markets. Saskatchewan is a landlocked province looking for continued access to Canada's coastline and we will fight for our constitutional right to get our products to port and to customers around the world.

We will ensure that opportunity is found here by standing with the people and the industries that drive growth and support our families. This means working to find solutions to transportation challenges, clearing the path to get our products to market, and it most definitely means no carbon tax.

Your Saskatchewan Party government has a vision for a vibrant and growing province where our children, and their children, have every opportunity to get an education, start their careers, raise their families and build a life. This vision is supported by the 2018-19 Provincial Budget which continues to provide strong, predictable and stable funding for Saskatchewan municipalities.

Revenue sharing has increased by 89 per cent over the past decade, providing municipalities with unconditional funding to be invested in local priorities. The amount is set based on one point of the PST collected by the government. Virtually no other area of government funding has seen the overall levels of funding increases municipalities have received through this program.

Our government's goal is to continue providing stable and predictable revenue sharing while remaining committed to our plan control spending, continue delivering high quality services, keep our economy strong and return the provincial budget to balance next year.

As our province continues to control spending and meet fiscal challenges, our commitment to municipalities remains clear. In addition to revenue sharing, we continue to invest in a variety of municipal infrastructure projects and community services.

The 2018-19 Budget includes provincial support for municipal infrastructure, including the provincial portion of the New Building Canada Fund and the Clean Water and Wastewater Fund, the Municipal Roads for the Economy Program, and the Urban Highway Connector Program.

Provincial support for municipalities is also provided through investments in housing as well as through grants for municipal policing and libraries, transit assistance for people with disabilities, the Discount Bus Pass Program, and the Community Airport Partnership Program.

Over the past decade, 36 community airports have benefited from cost-shared grants for repairs and upgrades. Twelve community airports in our province will benefit from the Community Airport Partnership program this year.

Whether it's a mile of runway, or a mile of highway, our government is making a major commitment to move people and products safely and efficiently.

The Saskatchewan Ministry of Highways and Infrastructure operates and maintains 26,000 km of provincial highways and motorists can expect to see road work in every region of the province throughout the 2018 construction season.

You can check the Highway Hotline for road restriction information before planning your trip at saskatchewan.ca/highwayhotline.

A number of passing lane projects and other improvements currently underway. In addition to slowing down and being alert when entering work zones, please remember to be aware of large farm equipment on our highways, especially during the busy Spring seeding season.

Since 2008, the Government of Saskatchewan has invested more than $8 billion in transportation infrastructure, including $3 billion over the last three years, to improve more than 12,000 km of Saskatchewan highways.

GOVERNMENT CELEBRATES 2018 WINTER OLYMPIC AND PARALYMPIC ATHLETES AND COACHES

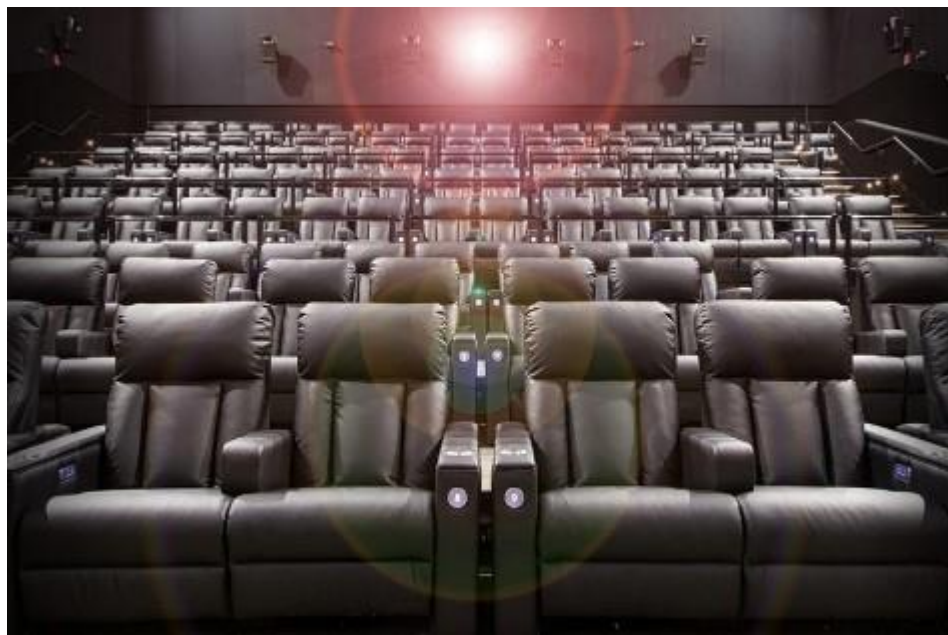

The athletes, coaches and official who represented their Saskatchewan roots at the 2018 Winter Olympic and Paralympic games were recognized by the Government of Saskatchewan, Sask Sport Inc. and the Canadian Sport Centre, at the Legislative Building today.

“The 2018 Winter Olympic and Paralympic games were a success for Team Canada,” Parks, Culture and Sport Minister Gene Makowsky said. “Congratulations to all of the Saskatchewan athletes and coaches who attended PyeongChang 2018. You are role models and ambassadors for your communities, for Saskatchewan and for Canada, and you have made us #SaskProud. Thank you for your commitment to sport and for inspiring the citizens of our province.”

YOUNG WORKERS REMINDED TO TAKE THE YOUNG WORKER READINESS CERTIFICATE COURSE

As young people wrap up the school year and start applying for summer jobs, they should remember to look into the employment and safety rules that apply to young workers.

Most importantly, 14- and 15-year-old workers need to have their Young Worker Readiness Certificate Course (YWRCC) Certificate of Completion before they can enter the workforce. The course teaches young workers about their rights and responsibilities in the workplace. Students will learn the basics about employment standards and workplace health and safety.

“Although this information is useful for anyone, it is targeted towards young people getting ready to start their first job,” Labour Relations and Workplace Safety Minister Don Morgan said. “We want young workers to feel comfortable enough to ask questions when they don’t understand what is expected of them and refuse work they feel is unsafe.”
